Introduction

The Judgment Registry is a database of active federal and provincial judgments, provincial maintenance judgments, federal writs of execution and enforcement instructions that are registered against personal property and lands in Saskatchewan. It was established under Section 18(1) of The Enforcement of Money Judgments Act. The act came into force on May 28, 2012.

Enforcement Instruction were included in a Judgment Registry search as of February 3, 2018. Enforcement Instruction provides notice that a creditor has commenced action on a judgment.

The Judgment Registry replaces the Saskatchewan Writ Registry, which in turn replaced the general records of the former Saskatchewan Land Titles offices. Under The Land Titles Act, 2000, all judgments have to be registered in the Judgment Registry to affect goods and lands in the province.

Anyone can search the land registry at any time to determine if a judgment has been registered against a particular title or interest.

Overview

This manual explains how to search the Judgment Registry. It includes information about:

- search fees;
- name search features;
- how a Judgment Registry search compares to a search in the Saskatchewan Personal Property Registry;
- how to do a debtor name search in the Judgment Registry;
- how to view your search results; and
- how to print your results or have ISC send them to you.

Format

In this manual, bold type is used for the names of specific buttons, features, fields and sections in the Judgment Registry application.

Underlining is used for emphasis.

Red text identifies a cross-reference. Clicking on this text will take you to the page listed.

Searching in the Judgment Registry

You can access the Judgment Registry from the ISC website. To search the registry, you will need to log in to the website using your ISC user name, client number, account number and password.

See page 8 for details on how to access and search the registry.

You can search the registry by any of the following criteria:

- Debtor name.
- Judgment Registry number or Enforcement Instruction number.
- Land title registration number.

To search by serial number, click the Launch SPPR link on the left-hand side of the ISC signed-in homepage.

Search Fees

There is a flat fee to view the details of a judgment. This fee applies to each one of your search results. If your search does not return any results, no fee is charged. For fee information, please see the fee's under the fees tab.

If you would like a copy of your search results, you can either print it yourself for free, or ask ISC to send it to you. If you choose the second option, additional fees will apply.

There is a charge for search results delivered by email or fax, and regular mail (See ISC Fee tab).

Name Searches

The system is set up so that it will only return exact matches to your search criteria, unless you specify otherwise.

When you are doing a search by debtor name, you may wish to broaden your search by having the system return results that are similar to your criteria, but that might not match them exactly. This can be useful in situations where you do not know the precise spelling of a debtor's name.

To receive similar as well as exact matches, use:

- the Include names that are similar in spelling feature;
- the wildcard feature (%); or
- the replace character feature (_).

Use the Include names that are similar in spelling feature when you know how to pronounce a name, but not how to spell it.

Use the % feature when you only know a few letters of the name you are searching for, and use the _ feature to represent one unknown letter in a name.

If you are not sure of the correct spelling of a firm or family name, you can either check the Include names that are similar in spelling box or use wildcards.

You can use wildcards in any field. However, you can only use the Include names that are similar in spelling feature in the Firm Name and Family Name fields.

Note: You cannot use both types of features (i.e. the similar in spelling option and wildcards) in the same field at the same time. Doing so will produce an error message.

The table on the next two pages highlights the different name search features and explains when to use each one.

The Judgment Registry vs. the Saskatchewan Personal Property Registry

As an ISC customer, you have two options when it comes to searching for judgments: the Judgment Registry and the Saskatchewan Personal Property Registry (SPPR).

If you are only looking for active judgments, the best place to search is in the Judgment Registry. If you are looking for all active liens (including judgments), the best place to search is in the SPPR. Enforcement Instructions are displayed in both searching options.

The table below shows the differences between a Judgment Registry search and a search in the SPPR:

Register button on the sign in page and follow the instructions to set one up.

2. Once you are on the ISC homepage, click the Judgment Search link on the left-hand side of the page. The Judgment Search section will display.

The screenshot shows the 'Judgment Search' form. At the top right, there is a 'Client Reference:' label followed by an empty text box. Below this, a blue header bar contains the text 'Search in the Judgment Registry using Debtor Name, Registration Number (Judgment or Enforcement Instruction) or Land Titles Registration Number as the criteria.' The main form area has a 'Search By:' label followed by a dropdown menu currently set to 'Debtor Name'. Below the dropdown are two radio buttons: 'Firm Name:' and 'Family Name:'. The 'Family Name:' option is selected. To the right of these radio buttons are two empty text boxes, each followed by a '* Required' label. Below these is a checkbox labeled 'Include names that are similar in spelling'. Further down are two more text boxes labeled 'Given Name:' and 'Second Name:'. At the bottom of the form, there is a small text block: 'Enter first name only in the Given Name field. For more detailed information please click Name Search Help. Select SPPR Application to search by Serial Number.' At the bottom right of the form are two blue buttons: 'Search' and 'Clear'.
